

World ATM Congress:

Rinaldi Stresses Global Collaboration, Breaking Down Walls as Keys to Successful Representation

While each country represented on the panel has unique airspaces of differing size with differing concerns, all union leaders stressed the importance of collaboration between labor organizations. Read more.

World ATM Congress:

The Importance of Collaboration

NATCA's Director of Safety and Technology Jim Ullmann and NATCA Program Management Organization (PMO) Rep Jeff Woods took the stage at this important international conference to discuss collaboration, a cornerstone of success in the aviation community. Both shared their unique technology-oriented perspectives on how the United States has built better, more robust systems through collaboration. Read more.
