CATCA/Canada Update on COVID-19 (May 12, 2020)

Brothers and Sisters,

In this National Update, we're sharing the fifth in a series of videos about high profile issues for our Union and aviation safety professions. In this video, we talk to the President of the Canadian Air Traffic Control Association Peter Duffey about what it's like to be a controller in Canada during the COVID-19 crisis.

NATCA and CATCA are members of the the Global Air Traffic Controllers Alliance. The Alliance was formed in 2018 among leaders of like-minded air traffic control unions in the United States, Canada, the United Kingdom, Australia, Spain, and New Zealand. The partnership among NATCA, Prospect ATCOs' Branch, CATCA, NZALPA, Civil Air Australia, and USCA strengthens ties and establishes a collective voice to speak on a range of subjects.
