Final Preparation for Communicating For Safety 2023

Final preparations are underway for NATCA to welcome more than 1,300 participants to Communicating For Safety 2023.

We are proud that NATCA's CFS has become a platform to foster open dialogue and the exchange of ideas surrounding aviation safety. Since its inception in 1999, CFS has brought aviation professionals from around the world together to discuss our shared challenges. Today, 24 years later, it is truly an honor to be part of this remarkable event that has become the premier aviation safety conference globally.

Our Union hopes that all attendees have a great conference and take away some new information and insight!

NATCA's Article 114 Representatives Meet in Las Vegas

NATCA's Article 114 Representatives gathered prior to the start of Communicating For Safety 2023 for a meeting in Las Vegas. These members' roles exemplify NATCA's commitment to collaboration. They ensure NATCA's interests and the safety of the National Airspace System (NAS) as a whole. Article 114 Representatives bring operational experience to nationwide changes and policies, enabling the FAA, NATCA, and industry to work together to modernize and improve the NAS.
