AFA-CWA President Sara Nelson Delivers Powerful Message of Unity and Action

NATCA was proud to welcome International President of the Association of Flight Attendants-CWA (AFA-CWA) Sara Nelson to address our Union's 20th Biennial Convention, where she delivered a message about the importance of solidarity to the labor movement. As a longtime ally in the fight for aviation safety and workers' rights, Nelson spoke directly to the values that drive our Union: solidarity, activism, and standing up for what's right. She reminded delegates that the struggles we face are not ours alone, and that progress comes when working people unite to demand safety, fairness, and respect. Her call to action was a powerful moment of the day and a strong reminder that NATCA's voice is part of the larger labor movement growing, not just in aviation, but around the world.
