

FAA Academy Trainees Engage with NATCA Leaders at Meet and Greet

On June 11, NATCA hosted a Meet and Greet event for FAA Academy trainees in Oklahoma City, offering them a unique opportunity to connect with seasoned air traffic control professionals and NATCA representatives.

NATCA Executive Vice President Mick Devine, New England Regional Vice President Kevin Curtiss, National Training Rep. Jamaal Haltom, and Reloaded Committee member Cameron Haynes (ICT) addressed attendees. They shared valuable insights and personal experiences that underscored the vital role that NATCA plays in advocating for its members.

With a turnout of 75 trainees, the event was filled with questions, networking, and excitement about future opportunities within our Union. This initiative is an essential part of our mission to build a stronger, more informed membership that champions the interests and welfare of air traffic professionals nationwide.

The next Meet and Greet event is scheduled for July 16.

Length of Service Increase

This pay period, NATCA represented employees will receive the negotiated length of service increase to pay. Each of NATCA's Collective Bargaining Agreements (CBAs) with the FAA provides for a one-point-six percent (1.6%) length of service increase effective the first full pay period of June. This year, the first full pay period of June concluded on June 14, so the increase will be included in the paycheck for the period of June 1-14, 2025, payable the week of June 22.

In accordance with our CBAs, if the length of service adjustment will cause the employee's Basic Pay to exceed the band maximum or the employee's Basic Pay is already equal to or exceeds the band maximum, the employee will receive a pay increase up to the band maximum and the remainder as a lump sum payment.

Support NATCA's Aviation Outreach at Oshkosh: Limited-Edition Merchandise Now Available

EAA AirVenture Oshkosh is the largest air show in the world, drawing more than 686,000 attendees, over 10,000 aircraft, and thousands of aviation professionals, enthusiasts, and families each year. It's a weeklong celebration of flight and innovation, and NATCA is proud to be part of it, offering vital air traffic control education and outreach to pilots, families, and future aviators.

From the controllers working the busiest airspace in the world to NATCA members leading pilot communication workshops, emergency procedure briefings, and hands-on learning at KidVenture, our volunteers make a lasting impact.

Now, you can support that effort and show your pride with official NATCA Oshkosh 2025 merchandise, available for a limited time. Items include sweatshirts, t-shirts, magnets, coffee cups, kids apparel, hats, and patches, all featuring the exclusive NATCA Oshkosh logo.

Quantities are limited, and the ordering window is short. Merchandise is available to NATCA members and the general public. Proceeds support NATCA's volunteers and our mission to promote aviation safety and controller-pilot collaboration at this major event. Order here now.
