2026 Fatigue and Scheduling Update

NATCA Members:

We have met in person with the Agency and held follow-up discussions regarding fatigue and scheduling provisions for the 2026 contract. We are meeting with the FAA Administrator this week to determine if we can finalize an agreement.

We understand the urgency of this issue and are doing everything possible to ensure it progresses in a timely manner. Our goal is to provide Facility Representatives, or anyone involved in local schedule negotiations, with the time, guidance, and clarity they need, so they do not have to rush the negotiation process for the members locally.

If an agreement is reached with the Agency, we'll update the FacReps first, followed by the full membership. If not, we'll provide another update by Friday, July 11.

In Solidarity,

Nick Daniels
NATCA President
